

What we love most about our home and Neighborhood...

What We Love About Our Home:

When we built our home, we wanted a space that was both functional and beautiful, perfect for entertaining while offering comfortable first-floor living. We love the open kitchen that flows into the great room, creating a spacious atmosphere. The primary suite is on the first floor, with a separate guest area and bath, so we rarely need to go upstairs unless we have an overflow of guests. The upstairs is a private retreat for them, with a large bedroom, full bath, bonus room, and exercise area. The layout ensures privacy for everyone, as the primary suite and secondary bedrooms are at opposite ends of the house.

Our Favorite Spaces:

So many favorite spots...it's hard to choose; we LOVE the enclosed back porch, where we can watch deer and wildlife from the woods behind us. The large front porch swing is a close second for quiet afternoons. We also love the side patio where we grill and have another porch swing to enjoy! Inside, the spacious walk-in attic offers ample storage, and my husband appreciates the tall concrete crawl space for all his tools and equipment. The primary suite's huge closet is a standout feature, and the upstairs room has served as an office, exercise room, and playroom. The bonus room, with our pool table, is a favorite hangout, along with the deck and hot tub area.

What Makes Our Neighborhood Great:

Our neighborhood is ideal, with a fantastic HOA, large lots, and natural woods and streams behind the homes. It's a safe, peaceful place to walk and run, with a pond for fishing. The silos from the former dairy farm add charm, and our neighbors are friendly, respectful, and maintain beautiful yards. It's a great community that feels like home.

What We'll Miss Most:

We'll miss the convenience of living near Wake Forest, with easy access to roads, beautiful parks and plentiful shopping. The floor plan of our home, which suits our lifestyle perfectly, will also be hard to leave. We'll miss our wonderful neighbors who have become friends, and the large porches—both front and back—that have provided us with so much joy and relaxation.
