WHEREAS, Article VII, Sections 1 and 2 of the Declaration of Master Covenants, Conditions and Restrictions for Planters Walk of Knightdale Community Association, Inc. (“Planters Walk”) states that the Board may adopt additional guidelines along with the rules and regulations as it deems necessary to carry out its functions and purposes hereunder, provided all such rules and regulations shall be provided by the Board of Directors and made available to residents.

Therefore, BE IT NOW RESOLVED THAT effective April 19, 2022, the Board of Directors duly adopts the rules and regulations to be effective April 19, 2022. This resolution shall remain in effect until otherwise rescinded, modified, or amended by a majority of the Board of Directors.

These rules and regulations have been drafted for the betterment, safety, and collective enjoyment of our community.

We believe these policies will:

The association management company makes regular inspections of the community to address any violations to the master covenants, architectural guidelines, or regulations outlined in this document. X. Due Process Procedures

Due Process procedures will be followed, in the order stated below, for all violations to the aforementioned rules and regulations, master and sub-association covenants, or architectural guidelines. Homeowners are encouraged to review and be familiar with all documented rules and guidelines set forth for Planters Walk to avoid unknowingly committing any violations.

1. Violation Report - Violations can be reported either during management company inspections or by Planters Walk homeowners. Homeowners who wish to report violations must submit details and photographs where possible to the management company for review. Note that results of violations reported and actions taken by the Homeowners Association cannot be legally shared with the homeowner(s) who reported the violation.*
2. 1st Violation Letter Sent – The 1st violation letter informs the homeowner of the violation and gives a certain amount of time to bring the violation into compliance or communicate a timeline for resolution. This time frame can vary based on the severity of the violation and the amount of work required for a proper resolution.
3. Inspection – This follow-up inspection is performed by the management company. If the homeowner has brought their home back into compliance, due process ends at this time and the violation report is closed.
4. 2nd Violation Letter Sent – If after the follow-up inspection the homeowner is still in violation, a second violation letter is sent warning of potential repercussions for not bringing their violation into compliance (fines of up to $100 per day). This letter also gives the homeowner a detailed description of the violation as well as a (typically accelerated) time frame regarding compliance to the community guidelines and resolution of the violation.
5. Second Inspection – The second inspection is a follow-up inspection performed by the management company after the second violation letter is sent. If the homeowner has brought their home back into compliance, due process ends here and the violation is closed.
6. Due Process Hearing Letter – If after the second inspection the homeowner is still not in compliance, the homeowner is invited to a Due Process Hearing. This hearing is an opportunity for the homeowner to discuss the violation with the management company and the Board of Directors. Due Process Hearings are held during the Executive Session of the monthly Board of Directors meetings and are private and confidential. Homeowners are encouraged to attend with any relevant arguments or documentation involving the violation and plans for resolution.
7. Third Inspection – This inspection usually happens the day of the Due Process Hearing. This inspection is to review and determine whether the homeowner has corrected the violation prior to the hearing. This inspection is performed by the management company so they can make recommendations to the Board of Directors during the Due Process Hearing.

8. Due Process Hearing - At this hearing, the homeowner and the Board of Directors have an opportunity to discuss the violation, why it has persisted, and if there are any extenuating circumstances. After the hearing, the Board will discuss and make a ruling on how to handle the violation. If the homeowner opts not to attend the Due Process Hearing, the Board can still make a ruling on the violation, including whether to begin issuing fines. Homeowners are only offered one Due Process Hearing per violation, and the Board will make a hearing decision regardless of attendance.
9. Due Process Results Letter – After the Due Process Hearing, the management company sends a letter to the homeowner explaining the Board's decision.
10. Due Process Fines – The day of the hearing, the Board can issue a fine. After the initial fine is issued, the Board must wait 5 days to issue another fine in order to allow the Due Process Results letter ample time to reach the homeowner. After the 5-day grace period, the Board can choose to fine the homeowner at a maximum rate of $100 per day.
11. Closing Due Process Violations – Once the homeowner has notified the management company that the violation has been corrected by sending a picture of the violation's resolution, the management company will then close the violation.

XI. A FINAL, IMPORTANT NOTE:

All Homeowners, Residents, and guests are subject to these Rules and Regulations. Violations may result in fines being levied against the Homeowner's account. Said fines, by North Carolina General Statutes may be up to One Hundred Dollars ($100) per day, per violation at the discretion of the Board of Directors. Written notice and a Due Process Hearing must take place before a fine can be levied. If the violation is still not corrected within a reasonable time, the Homeowners Association may take legal action to ensure compliance.
